

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

There are so many different cultures!

Learning Outcome

Understand detailed descriptions of real or imaginary events and experiences in present, past or future and in spoken or written texts.

Ask your partner:

- What cultures are you interested in?
- Would you consider going to live or work in a different culture? Why or why not?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about different cultures and civilizations.
- I can express a statement by focusing on the action.
- I can present detailed information based on events or actions.

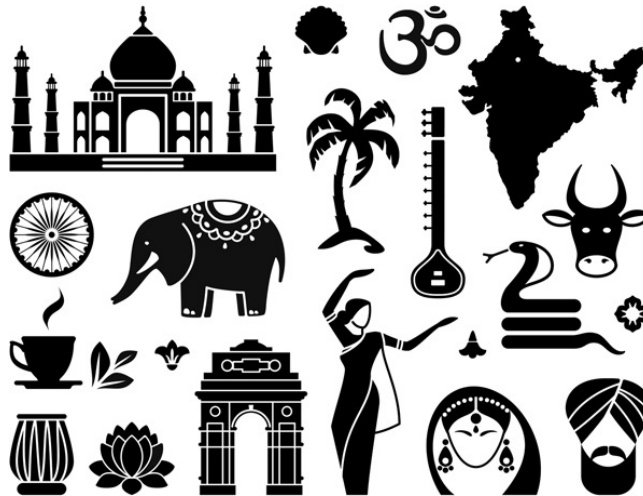

Let's Explore!

There are multitudes of unique cultures around the world!

* A "multitude" is a very large number.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Culture is the food we eat, the clothes we wear, and the way we live our lives. A multitude of unique cultures are to be found around the world.

A culture remaining the same for hundreds of years can happen. This is to be seen in the Tibetan culture, whose way of life goes back many years.

Most Tibetans are found living in small villages, but there are other Tibetans who are still nomadic. Playing their own music and doing their own particular types of dance help keep their traditions alive.

As many other cultures continue to be adjusted as the world changes, the Tibetans allow theirs to remain unchanged. In this way, they remain faithful to their values, customs, and traditions.

Being connected to the environment is part of the Zambian tradition. Living in small villages is what they have always done and what continues to be done even now, when much of the world has been industrialized. Many Zambians still make their living hunting, fishing, and farming. A surprising seventy percent of the Zambian labor force is to be found doing agricultural work while only thirty percent are to be encountered in industry or services. In some countries, like India, the culture constantly changes. This country with a 5,000 year history, has allowed itself to be transformed over the years. On the one hand, there is the documentation of how different religious movements and political events have shaped India over time to be seen in their art. Both worlds intermingle so the past, present and future are all evident at once.

For most people, their culture is a source of pride. Maintaining their own traditions and values is what keeps them together and makes them unique.

Let's Practice!

What do they do for a living?

Instructions: Choose the option that best completes the sentence. Practice saying the complete sentences aloud.

1. Tibetans keep their traditions by _____ their own music.
a. playing b. played c. play
2. The way the Zambians make their living is by _____, _____ and _____.
a. fish / hunting / farm b. fished / hunting / farm c. fishing / hunting / farming
3. The percentage of Zambian people _____ agricultural work is 70.
a. doing b. done c. do
4. There are different factors that have caused the _____ of India.
a. reshaping b. shape c. shapes
5. _____ connected to the environment is part of the Zambian tradition.
a. To being b. Being c. Be

Let's Practice!

Civilizations are to be adjusted as the world changes.

Instructions: Organize the mystery sentences. Put each word in the correct order.

1. are to be / A multitude of / the world. / found around

2. the Tibetan / to be / This is / seen in / culture.

3. culture. / be seen / New / in Zambian / adjustments are to

4. as the / cultures continue / world changes. / to be adjusted / Many

5. continues to / Living / be done now. / in small villages

6. found / labor force / The Zambian / is to be / doing agricultural / work.

Extension Activity

Find out about another culture.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Go online or to the library to find out about another culture.
- Write a descriptive text in which you explain the population of that culture, where and how they live, what they do for a living, and their artistic expressions.
- Write from 100 to 150 words.
- Include gerunds and passive infinitives in your description.
- Bring your written work to class and share it with a partner.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I write about another culture using gerunds.

☐
☐

I use passive infinitives.

☐
☐

I share my work with a partner.

☐
☐

Target Words

- nomadic (adjective): traveling from place to place
e.g. There are other Tibetans who are still nomadic.
- to adjust (verb): to change slightly to be more effective or suitable e.g. As many other cultures continue to be adjusted as the world changes, the Tibetans allow theirs to remain unchanged.
- faithful (adjective): firm and not changing e.g. They remain faithful to their values, customs, and traditions.
- industrialized (adjective): having a lot of industry
e.g. Much of the world has been industrialized.
- labor force (noun): people who work
e.g. Seventy percent of the Zambian labor force is to be found doing agricultural work.
- services (noun): jobs where workers help people
e.g. Only thirty percent are to be encountered in industry or services.
- documentation (noun): official information
e.g. There is the documentation of how different religious movements and political events have shaped India.
- involvement (noun): taking part in e.g. The reshaping of India is to be noticed in its rapidly expanding involvement in the digital industry.
- to reshape (verb): to change to be different
e.g. The reshaping of India is to be noticed in its rapidly expanding involvement in the digital industry.
- to intermingle (verb): mix together
e.g. Both worlds intermingle so the past, present and future are all evident at once.

Learning Points

Passive Infinitives

You use the active infinitive when the subject of your sentence is who is to do the action. You use the passive infinitive when the subject of your sentence is what is to be done.

The passive infinitive is formed:

to be + past participle

For example:

This country with a 5,000 year history, has allowed itself to be transformed over the years.

Look at the chart for a comparison between the active and passive voices:

Active Sentence	Passive Sentence
As many other cultures continue to adjust as the world changes, the Tibetans allow theirs to remain unchanged.	As many other cultures continue to be adjusted as the world changes, the Tibetans allow theirs to remain unchanged.
Living in small villages is what they have always done and what they continue to do even now.	Living in small villages is what they have always done and what continues to be done even now.
We find a surprising seventy percent of the Zambian labor force doing agricultural work.	A surprising seventy percent of the Zambian labor force is to be found doing agricultural work.

Note: Notice that when modal verbs are used, the preposition "to" is not needed.

Examples:

- As many other cultures continue to be adjusted as the world changes, the Tibetans allow theirs to remain unchanged.
- Living in small villages is what they have always done and what continues to be done even now, when much of the world has been industrialized.
- This country with a 5,000 year history, has allowed itself to be transformed over the years.
- On the one hand there is the documentation of how different religious movements and political events have shaped India over time to be seen in their art.

Learning Points

What is a Gerund?

A gerund is a noun formed with a verb ending in -ing.

For example:

Shopping is fun.

Smoking is a bad habit.

A gerund can be used as the subject of the sentence.

For example:

Living in small villages is what they have always done.

Maintaining their own traditions and values is what keeps them together and makes them unique.

A gerund is also used as a complement of the verb "to be".

For example:

Vanessa is shopping.

I am reading a book.

Gerunds are used as adjectives when they describe something that causes an emotion.

For example:

The movie is exciting.

This is an interesting article.

Gerunds are used after prepositions.

For example:

Richard is good at playing the guitar.

You should improve the text by adding connectors.

Examples:

- Reflecting who we are, culture is the food we eat, the clothes we wear, and the way we live our lives.
- A culture remaining the same for hundreds of years can happen.
- Being connected to the environment is part of the Zambian tradition.
- On the other hand there is the reshaping of India to be noticed.
- Tibetans keep their traditions by playing their own music.
- Playing their own music and doing their own particular types of dance help keep their traditions alive.

